Japanese Spokesman Says World Must Give Own Meaning to Policy

Foreign Office Member At Tokyo Refuses to Clarify Hirota's Sensational Declaration—Not a Reply To Hull Statement.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)

Tokyo, May 5.—A foreign office spokesman, refusing to clarify Koki Hirota's sensational new declaration of Japan's "hands-off China" policy, asserted today "the world must make its own interpretation."

The spokesman did say, however, that the speech was not intended as a reply to Secretary of State Hull's strong statement of America's position in the Orient.

The interpretation placed upon the foreign minister's speech by foreign diplomats was that Hirota served notice Japan will not participate in consultations with other signatories of the nine-power treaty in the event Article Seven is invoked.

This article calls for "a full and frank communication between the contracting powers concerned" whenever a situation arises which "involves the application of the present treaty, and renders desirable discussion of such application."

The treaty, among other things, guarantees the open door in China. Diplomatic official speculation on Hirota's speech, delivered yesterday before the prefectural governors, centered on a passage stressing Japan's readiness to discuss "rights" "with each individual power," but indicating determination to avoid in the future any international conference debating "questions of East Asia."

In refusing detailed clarification, the foreign office spokesman declined also to state whether Japan is renouncing her obligations to engage in full and frank communication with the other nine-power treaty signatories on questions pertaining to her relations with China.

Besides Japan, the signatories are the United States, Belgium, the British Empire, China, France, Italy, the Netherlands and Portugal.

Chinese leaders already have been reported sounding out the signatories regarding the advisability of invoking the treaty in regard to Japan's new declaration of responsibility for the maintenance of peace in Eastern Asia.

Sign Painting Racket Worked in Cohoes

Men Purporting To Be Agents of The State Intimidate Merchants Into Having Their Names Printed on Front Windows.

A new swindle has been worked in Cohoes recently. This time it is a sign painting racket. Men purporting to be agents of the state visit merchants, distribute copies of Section 444-A of the penal law in relation to ownership of merchandise establishments. There men warn owners that within five days they must have both the trade name and the proprietors' or owners' names printed on the front windows or in the building. Then they go away.

Within half an hour after the visit of the alleged agents a sign painter appears and asks if there is any work to be done. Intimidated by the warning of the recent visit and not analyzing the contents of the law section thoroughly, many merchants have been victims of the racket and had signs painted.

The law actually requires either the trade or the proprietors' name be displayed.

Issues Warning Of Serious Fire Hazard

Albany, N. Y., May 5 (AP).—A "serious fire hazard" confronts the state's forests this year, Conservation Commissioner Lithgow Osborne said today.

He issued a warning to sportsmen and others not to let fires get started.

"Despite rain of the past two days the ground is extremely dry," the commissioner said. "All persons, particularly fishermen and picnickers, are cautioned against leaving camp fires burning."

"Following reports from various sections of the state, we find we are faced by a serious fire hazard which will increase in intensity until the foliage is fully developed."

"Previous to yesterday's rain, fires were occurring with greater frequency than heretofore, and were common in all sections of the state."

Unless President Roosevelt persuades him to stay longer, the White House will have the task of finding a new chief for a banking board that is assuming increasing importance under legislation now in the making. If these associates know, that means Georgia, where Black used to govern the Atlanta Reserve Bank.

50th Anniversary Of Excelsior Hose Co.

Will Be Celebrated on June 4 to 9 With Various Kinds of Entertainment to Be Put On By The Company.

Members of Excelsior Hose Company are anticipating a big time on June 4 to 9 inclusive when the company will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the company's existence in its present quarters on Hurley avenue. The celebration will take the form of an entertainment and outdoor amusements staged at the Kingston Fair Grounds. Arrangements are being made for various kinds of entertainment which will be put on by the company. Among the entertainments which will be secured will be a wild west show, various kinds of rides and a circus. The amusements will be hired directly by the hose company and in the selection particular care will be taken to get only such entertainments as Kingston people will like.

While Excelsior Hose Company will call the affair its 50th anniversary the company in reality is very much older than that. The anniversary is the half century celebration of the company in its present quarters on Hurley avenue.

Prior to being located on Hurley avenue the company was located first on John street. On June 2, 1888, the company was organized and occupied a brick property on John street near Green street which has since been converted into a residence property. On October 8, 1888 the company moved to a new location on Crown street opposite the Kingston Hotel and from there on June 5, 1883 the company moved to its present quarter on Hurley avenue.

The 50th anniversary of that move came last year but due to the depression it was decided not to hold the celebration until this year. Since then plans have been going forward toward a real celebration.

Since its organization Excelsior Hose Company has always been a particularly active organization. Twice the company has won the State Convention prize and the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association prize has four times been captured by the local firemen.

This year the company has been invited to participate in the National Firemen's Convention in Washington on Labor Day and the proceeds from the entertainment in June will be devoted toward the trip to Washington.

Rain or shine, fire or fever, the assembled clans and followers of the turf anticipated a rare battle of thoroughbred horseflesh, rivaling anything the derby has produced in recent years. Not only is the old struggle between the aristocrats of the east and west renewed but, for the first time in a blue moon, two blue blooded equine ladies—Bazaar and Matti Hari, belle of Kentucky—challenge the tradition supremacy of the racing gentlemen in the test of stamina, speed and courage over the route of one mile and a quarter.

Since Aristides, the little red horse, ran off with the first derby in 1875, only one filly, Harry Payne Whitney's Regret, has captured the Derby. Not since 1921 has a queen among three-year-olds so much as been in the money. Horsemen will tell you quite frankly that sex is a barrier that not even class and a five-pound advantage in the stake weight can offset at this time of the year in the thoroughbred kingdom. Yet there is sufficient public support to make the flashy, temperamental Mata Hari second choice in the Derby by betting at approximate odds of 5 to 1 and no lack of confidence that the powerful built Bazaar is a "Second Regret" with a good chance to make it three derbies in a row for Colonel Bradley's Idle Hour Farm.

Topping the list is Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Cavalcade, a colt which has already demonstrated rare speed in two track performances in Maryland. Royally bred in England but foaled in this country, Cavalcade has the background and qualifications of a champion. Regardless of track conditions, he ruled a firm favorite today, with his stablemate, Time Clock, the Florida derby winner, at approximately 3 to 1. There were many who expected Cavalcade to topple the field.

Third choice to the Brookmeade Pair and Mata Hari, owned by Charles T. Fischer of Detroit, was Peace Chance, another record-breaker. Peace Chance has been carefully primed at Churchill Downs for the derby. The colt broke T. W. Grand's record of 2:01 4-5 for the mile this week and appeared fit enough to break another this afternoon.

Discovery, the son of the celebrated "Iron Horse" display, carries the hope of a youthful millionaire sportsman, Alfred G. Van derbilt, and possesses the stamina essential to a bitterly contested stretch drive.

Harry Payne Whitney's English-bred Sp. Hill, Alex Gordon's Sir Thomas, a maiden colt but one-time future-brook favorite, and Norman Church's Riskulus, winner of the Agua Caliente Derby, all commanded some backing as "dark horses" in a probable starting field of 15.

On this basis, the derby will have a gross value of $27,500 and be worth $29,100 to the winner. For the first time since 1921, the added money has been cut from $50,000 to $20,000.

The race was scheduled for 5:15 p. m. central standard time.

Says Government Is Railroaded Him

Andrew W. Mellon Will Go Before Grand Jury Next Week on Charges Growing Out of His 1931 Income Tax.

Pittsburgh, May 5 (AP).—Andrew W. Mellon, whom Republican leaders have called "the greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton," asserts the government is "railroading" him before a grand jury next week in an effort to collect excessive income taxes.

Mellon, also former ambassador to the court of St. James, issued a statement last night disclosing the government is seeking $1,319,080.90 additional taxes and a penalty of $695,540.45, based on his 1931 return. He said he would appeal to the U. S. board of tax appeals.

The director of the vast Mellon financial empire declared the action is "utter disregard to statutory regulations" and that he is "as much in the dark as ever as to any grounds" but in Washington Attorney General Cummings replied that "Mr. Mellon is not a much 'in the dark' as he makes the public believe."

"I know something about the administration of tax laws," the Mellon statement continued, "but never until now have I known a case where a taxpayer has been railroaded to the grand jury without first being given a hearing in the treasury and an opportunity to refute the government's claim."

In commenting on the statement in Washington, the attorney general said "He (Mellon) must reconcile himself to being treated like anyone else in a similar situation."

No Assessment Boost For Improvements

City Assessor George W. Moore on Monday morning will begin the work of making his annual inspection of properties in the city preparatory to laying the 1935 assessments. The city assessor stated today that no property owner need hesitate to go ahead with any improvement contemplated to property as no boost in assessments would be made on that ground. Many home owners are planning to make necessary repairs to their property and also to have their houses repainted. There is no necessity of holding up this work for fear that the assessment will be jacked up.

Roosevelt To Talk To Silver Advocates On Way To New York

Members of "Salvationists" Group On Special Train Hearing President to Woodin Ride—Conciliatory Mood Works Senate Members.

Washington, May 5 (AP).—Silver "salvationists" are to take a train ride with President Roosevelt today to plead for a new and carefully guarded plan for mandatory re-monetization of the white metal.

At the president's invitation, the Senate silver group entered the second conference with the executive to the special train which will take him to New York for the funeral of William H. Woodin, former secretary of the treasury.

The party was to have taken place at the White House in the forenoon, but Mr. Roosevelt's decision to attend the Woodin funeral forced the change in plans.

The silver senators conceded they were in a more conciliatory mood than at the first conference a week ago, and Senator King (D-Utah), leader of the group, expressed confidence of a "reasonably satisfactory result." Other silverites were equally hopeful of an agreement for some form of legislation.

On the other hand, a high Democratic quarter predicted seriously that the Senate delegation merely was "going taken for a ride."

The silver men were disclosed to have shaped up for the party a composite plan, details of which they were careful to keep secret. Diverging ideas within their ranks have been a main source of trouble in the past.

Despite this internal agreement, Senate Democratic leaders who see eye to eye with the executive on silver viewed the conference merely as a nice Saturday train ride.

In other words, the President was described beforehand by those in his confidence as still unalterably opposed to any measure that would compel the purchase of large quantities of silver or direct him otherwise to aid the white metal by acting independently of other silver nations.

Moreover, Senate Democratic leaders asserted they held easily enough votes to reject any mandatory legislation such as is featured in the Dies bill and the Thomas substitute for it.

The silver bloc leaders gave some hint yesterday that they might be willing to compromise. King said he and his colleagues would go into the conference with "open minds."

Ibn Saud Must Talk To Italy, Great Britain

London, May 5 (AP).—Great Britain and Italy have demanded that King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia state his ultimate objectives and expectations in his war against the fleeing Yemeni, it was learned authoritatively today.

At the same time, it was learned in official quarters, that the British government ridicules reports Italy has a "treaty of a defensive sort with the Yemeni and therefore is alarmed because she backed the wrong horse."

It was emphatically stated, as reports piled up telling of Ibn Saud's conquering forces' relentless drive toward Sana, capital of Yemen, that the British view Italian interest in the situation as entirely similar to Britain's—protection of her nationals.

The Imam Yahya, ruler of Yemen, was reported to have fled, with cannon pounding his motorized military dashing death to fleeing Yemeni soldiers. Ibn Saud struck inland from Hodeidah, Yemen's fallen sea port, reports received here said.

Saturday Society Review

Music lovers of Kingston and vicinity are eagerly anticipating the concert to be held Wednesday evening, May 3, at the Municipal Auditorium when the Amphion Club of Newburgh and the Glee Club of Saugerties will join in giving a concert under the direction of Robert Williams, organist of St. John's Church, and formerly a pupil of T. Tertius Noble of New York city. In addition to a fine and varied program of choral singing Miss Josephine Lucchese, prima donna of the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company has been secured as soloist of the evening. The proceeds of this production will be used in the work of the Junior League public health center. Therefore, to save expense, the production is being arranged even to the scenery and costumes, by members of the organization, under the expert direction of Miss Helen Sheldon. In place of the annual fair which has been held early in the Christmas season for the benefit of the Home for the Aged, plans are being made for a garden fête in June, since the pleasant shaded lawns will lend themselves admirably to such an affair. Following the banquet the club held its annual election of officers which resulted in the choice of Miss Evelyn Douglas for president; vice-president, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Hyatt; secretary, Miss Jennie Comarata; treasurer, Miss Violet Burns; and program chairman, Miss Evelyn Smith. The evening concluded with the one act play "The Beauty Parlor" with Mrs. Maxwell Taylor, Mrs. Clarence Schoonmaker, Mrs. Leonard H. Fuller, Mrs. George N. Wood and Mrs. Frances Osterhout taking the different roles. During the dinner there was group singing and singing cheers in honor of the basketball teams. The com-

"The Rocket" was written by Bartlett Cormack and deals with the life and politics in a Chicago precinct station during the terrible twenties. This will be the final production of this dramatic society for the semester.

The dramatic class of the college also presented "Mrs. Moonlight" for the younger guests, while Rutgers College invited them to the LaCrosse game. Those who went from Kingston were Miss Althea Shaefer, Miss Olga Vetoski and Miss Elizabeth Ryder. At each place were Miss Phelps' White Springs their demitasse the guests changed amusing anecdotes. Following the luncheon the members repaired to another room where the annual meeting was held. Here when she went to open the meeting, the president, Miss Jane Zeigler, found a bowl of calendulas gracing her table. PARDON OUR "HARP" ON SERVICE

But we really think our service merits a song or two, and so we'll "harp" merrily on . . . For one thing, we're especially proud of our expertly trained, fashion-alert staff, whose knowledge of what's what in fashion, coupled with their desire to please, makes fashion-shopping at GOLDMAN'S a real joy. For another thing, we're proud of the fact that we sell "FIT" with our fashions, a most important factor in being well groomed since poor fitting fashions do mar one's figure and reputation and we are especially jealous of our reputation for perfect "Fitting" and altering, and, justly so. Then, too, we like being able to tell you that our shop is one of those very friendly places where one is always made to feel at home . . . and, that there's plenty of parking space adjacent to our shop. And, last, but not least, we want you to know that we guarantee service and satisfaction and will go to any ends to secure it for you. Again, then, please pardon our "Harping."

MURDER AT MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

Chapter 10
THE AUSTERLITZ

DUFFRENE had gone to a bench in the park and sat down. He knew that it would be useless to try any questions on the Detective Sergeant at this stage of the game. He lit a cigarette, and unfolded the evening paper. He had been carrying it in his overcoat pocket. Whistling softly to himself, he turned to the society columns. Harper went outside with a gasp. The portico light shone down on the curved front steps, and the white, unbroken blanket of snow that covered the lawn. "The my footprints as a guide for the path," Harper directed. "Make it about a foot wide and pile the snow neatly beside it. Don't scatter it around haphazardly." He went down the left curve of the steps and along the left side of the wall, clear of the other prints. Connally began to ply his shovel. The official car, in which Harper had come from Headquarters to the house on Powhattan Terrace, stood at the curb, the uniformed chauffeur at the wheel. "How fast can you get back into town?" Harper asked as he got in. "Oh, about twelve minutes, or fifteen. Where do you want to go, Sergeant?" "The Austerlitz." With the siren sounding, they went plunging on as speedily as was possible with the streets so snow-laden and the visibility so poor. But the chauffeur's most expert efforts could not make good his estimate, for it took him exactly twenty-two minutes to reach the Austerlitz. The detective walked through the ornate lobby and went to the marble-fronted desk. The night manager and his assistant, both of whom had been introduced to him earlier in the evening, greeted him. "Has everything been quiet?" he asked. "All serene, Sergeant. It's not very likely that we'll have any trouble in a place like this."

HARPER turned away and walked over to the secluded corner where "Camera Eye" Jacoby had ensconced himself, quietly watching from behind a spread newspaper. "How's everything, Jacoby?" "All quiet along the Potomac, Sergeant." Harper crossed the lobby and stepped into an elevator. As the doors slid open and Harper emerged on the twenty-eighth floor, the two detectives on guard there turned to see who had arrived. Markison was one of them, the other a Central District man whose face Harper recognized, but whose name he did not know. The topmost floor of the Austerlitz was divided between two suites. The one to the left of the elevators was Duffrene's, the one to the right that of the Hon. Royal Sanders, financier and ex-Senator, who was abroad at this time. His suite had been closed for months and the doors locked and sealed.

Monday, Harper finds strange things behind the locked door.

SMOKAN ELLENVILLE HIGH FALLS

Shokan, May 4.—Dr. Joseph J. Cosgrove returned Wednesday from Albany, where he has been undergoing treatment for several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Saml. Kads, are again in Shokan after having spent the winter in New York city. The city's workmen are now repairing the north boulevard in the Glenford section. So well are the rough places being smoothed out that the pavement of this heavily traveled road is practically as good as it was before the spring eruptions. There remains several bad holes between Glenford and Shokan which are badly in need of being fixed up for summer traffic. Mrs. Sarah Elmendorf is doing a good business at custom hatching with her battery of incubators at the Elmendorf homestead in the village center. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Crutcher returned home Wednesday after a vacation spent at their country place opposite the school house. The Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church met at the home of Mrs. R. W. Longear on Wednesday afternoon. It was decided at the business session to hold the society's annual fair and supper on Wednesday, August 15, also to hold a covered dish supper and social in the church hall on Tuesday evening, May 22.

A local marriage of May 6, 1932, was that which united Ernest Eckert and Jennie Beesmer, both of the town of Olive. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. John H. Fyfe, pastor of the Shokan M. Church. Witnesses to the nuptials were Mrs. J. H. Fyfe and Ward Beesmer.

William Personous and sister, Mrs. Mae Giles have returned from Kingston, where they spent the winter.

Mrs. Herman Wendt, Sr., and son, Herman, who arrived at their place on the state road last month, expect to make their home in Shokan permanently. Mr. Wendt, Sr., will join his family here in the near future.

The women of the Ladies' Aid Society have completed a snowball quilt which they are offering for sale. The society plans to send a box to a needy family in Kentucky in response to a letter received recently by Mrs. E. C. Burgher, teacher of the Shokan school.

Burr Elmendorf, one of the early bird gardeners, is planting his vegetable patch. Mr. Elmendorf invariably has a fine looking garden at his place in the east end of the village.

A fresh raw vegetable makes a pleasing addition to the school lunch.

Waxed floors should never be oiled, and mops without oil should be used to clean them.

Roominess to prevent binding is needed just as much in children's night clothes as it is in their play suits.

Use the same material for portieres as for side draperies, or a plain material that is the same color as the walls or slightly darker.

A bit of orange marmalade placed in each biscuit before it goes into the oven makes a hot bread both delicious and different.

When the supply of one vegetable is not sufficient for all, try cooking two or three vegetables together. Here are some good combinations: Carrots and peas; string beans and carrots; celery and turnips; rutabaga and potato; tomatoes and okra; tomatoes and onions; corn, string beans and onions; beets and peas.

SORE MAY CAUSE SKIN CANCER.

It is only natural in these days that when an injury occurs, the possibility that a cancer of the skin (epithelioma) may follow should immediately cause worry.

As you know cancer can arise from an injury to a surface and yet it is known that some one injury will cause a cancer in one individual and not in another.

In the late summer when the pollen from rayed flowers in the air about one in every seven individuals is attacked by hay fever and the other six have not the slightest symptoms. The reason that some are attacked by hay fever symptoms is because they are "sensitive" to rayed pollen and the others are not.

Now although we do not know the cause of cancer it is admitted that two things are necessary to cause it; first, the individual must have a tendency, likely inherited, to cancer, and, second, there must be some injury or irritation.

Therefore the individual with a tendency towards cancer who receives an injury on the surface of the body, may possibly develop cancer whereas one without this inherited tendency will not.

Dr. H. M. Morgan, Sydney, Australia, states that there is no experimental evidence that a skin cancer can be produced at will by a single act of trauma (injury).

However where there is a sore already present on the surface and

REPEATING THE WEDDING MARCH

WE HAVE just learned of a new kind of wedding ceremony. A "reaffirmation of marriage." It is called by the well-known opera singer, Renald Werregrath, and his wife, who took part in it.

The Werregraths were married six years ago in the city hall of Westbury, N. J. That was with modern efficiency, but without color or romance. It was merely trying the knot to make them man and wife.

For the past six years they have been happy; entirely, romantically happy. It seems.

And on their sixth wedding anniversary they wanted another ceremony—a "reaffirmation of marriage." Whether this was a belated realization of the bride's dream of what a wedding should be, a making-up to her for something left unsatisfied, or a romantic gesture on the part of a grateful happy husband, we do not know. Perhaps it was something of both. The marriage vows were repeated, with a robed minister, the wedding march, orange blossoms, and a celebration. And congratulations, in the regular way, were received from friends all over the country.

To all appearances the husband and wife enjoyed this reaffirming of their marriage, this repeating of their vows. Perhaps they will wish, six years hence, to repeat that reaffirmation. If so, more power to them. It is good to see people happy.

The great majority of us, however, do not need to do this. We are happy. Most people are so glad to get done with necessary ceremony that nothing would induce them to submit to one they had managed to escape, or to repeat one they had survived. When two people are happy together, they are likely to be selfish about that happiness to the point of regarding the mere presence of others as an intrusion. Rarely do they enjoy a public display of it.

But that is what makes the world so colorful and interesting—that we are not all alike. And, as the French say, "Each to his taste."

Remote control is the operation of mobile objects by radio or electrical control. These, of course, do not represent transmissions of energy, but merely radio control of actuating devices. The phrase is also applied where actual broadcasting apparatus is installed in one building and the studio and microphone are in another.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 5 (A.P.)—Stocks, led by the alcohol and some of the same group, suffered relatively severe declines today. Losses of 1 to around 4 points were recorded in a selling rush that put the ticker tape several minutes in arrears during the second hour. There were some mild recoveries just before the finish, but the close was heavy. Transfers approximately $75,000 shares.

Commission houses generally could assign no specific reason for the break. While Wall street was still somewhat gloomy over the prospects of government regulation of speculation, there was nothing especially new in this situation. There was some question as to the progress of business throughout the country under seasonal pressure. But most industries were said to be holding up well.

Shares of U. S. Industrial and American Commercial Alcohols were off around 4 points each and J. I. Case dropped 3. New York Central and Santa Fe were down 1 and 2 points, respectively. Others, off 1 to around 2, included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Western Union, United Aircraft, American Sugar Refining, DuPont, Spiegel-Meyer-Stern, John-Manville, American Can and Deere. Chrysler and General Motors yielded major fractions. Consolidated Gas and Public Service of New Jersey were only slightly lower. U. S. Smelting came back about 2 points, but American Smelting was not enthusiastic.

American Commercial Alcohol was heavy from the start, losing 5 points at one time. Selling in other categories was not long delayed. Heaviness of the liquor issues was attributed partly to reports that additional price cuts would soon be in order.

A GOOD CADABOUT

Copyright, 1934, by Fairchild.

A striking suit for late spring and summer wear is of black silk alpaca, with tailored bow blouse and enormous revers of black-and-white striped waffle pique. The waistline and sleeves are closed with huge square pearl buckle and buttons.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

Smart Style for Town Wear. PATTERN 8206.

The wide white revers and box pleats on this frock give it an air of smart distinction, dear to the hearts of conservative women. Women who do not like ruffles, or huge bows but still like something feminine and becoming will find a pattern here which suits them. It is very easy to make. The box pleats are in the front only and the back is left plain and simple, with only a yoke on the skirt for interest. The three quarter sleeves are a style feature this season.

A plaid gingham in red, yellow and green would be gay and delightful for summer, on a white ground, with white revers and cuffs. Designed in sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 38 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 inch material with 2/3 yard for contrasting.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

NEW FASHION HEADLINERS

There's more than a dash of originality and chic in these two fashion headliners. At left is a teagown, demonstrating one designer's conviction that a cape scarf adds grace to the costume. The gown is of biscuit buff satin crepe with wide shoulder straps of yellow chiffon, blending with the cape of black and Chinese yellow chiffon. A distinctly new note in chapeaux is the Persian sailor (right), looking like a man's tropical sun helmet with its round crown and rolled brim. The brim is about three inches wide and turns down.

Fashions by Eleanor Gunn

Let's Go Victorian

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Nothing could be more successful in the effort to make the summer wardrobe a picture that might have stepped out of an old-fashioned album than the use of the printed effects that are being adopted this season. The crisp character of the effects such as organdie, mousseline, or net give the quaint floral designs that are chosen for these prints, convey the new character of bridesmaid fashion.

It has been several seasons since prints have been considered at all for bridesmaids, and they are a refreshing sight again.

Another laurel for challis! Having been initiated into dress groups from sports to formal, beachwear people have taken it into their collections.

Tartans and alpacas adorn fashionable heads in Paris, with milliners sending them out as fabric favorites.

Formal linen suitings are coming to town this summer. The shops offer a great variety in types which reveal a preference for pattern weave interest, also dark colors blended with natural linen yarns.

Printed linens are headed for the biggest season of their career. They play up the dress and handkerchief weights, with the former most highly regarded. Flowers have come to challenge the big fashion for stripes, plaids and checks, and while as yet they have made little inroads, show every sign of coming more strongly to the fore with the warm weather.

Printed cotton nets have been steadily growing in popularity since the recent Paris openings.

Crinkled organdies have gone quite formal in the latest imports to arrive, taking evening and dinner fashions specifically into consideration. Weaves are more heavily blistered and take to definite patterns, highlighting elaborated stripes, block checks and multiple line plaids as well as tiny all-over florals simulating faconne designs. Among the most elaborate types are those using shaded colors with metallic effects, the latter usually making the leaves of gaily multicolored chiffon-like flower bouquets and sprays.

Hearing much of crisp fabrics, it is significant to hear of greatly increased activity in printed nets.

The two hats illustrated were worn respectively by the matron of honor and the bridesmaids at a recent fashionable wedding.

That of the matron of honor, shown at left, is of flesh organdie with a matching satin band, bow, muffs.

A Victorian Picture

Copyright, 1934, by Fairchild

These charming wedding party costumes were worn recently at a large church wedding. At left, the matron of honor wore a quaint but modern frock in stiff peach-pink satin with large drapes at back forming a bustle effect, and a long train. A ruffle of pink organdie outlined the neckline. A mull of pink camellias supplied the more conventional bouquet, and the hat is of pink organdie with satin ribbon. The bride wore a modern interpretation of a mid-Victorian frock in heavy white shirred satin made with bouffant skirt and train. This was softened by a necklace of chiffon gardenias and bands of them outlining the sleeves which were draped in loops at the elbow. Gardenias made the marker for the prayer book which she carried. Her veil was a simple tulle one worn in cap fashion with gardenias holding it at each side.

Mr. Strelsky accompanied by his wife will conduct a European tour this summer.

Myrtle Thompson and Ruth Nickerson were elected at a special meeting of the Sigma Xi Sigma to attend the convention, May 15, at Oneonta. A social and business meeting will be held at the home of Miss Ruth Havens on May 15 at eight o'clock. Clinton Seward will be initiated with the group eligible for membership.

Fairlee, K. Ernst, Alexander, Hallock and one of the drama team went to Cornwall Saturday to take part in the N. Y. M. A. spring meet. The match with N. Y. M. A. was the first of the Normal tennis season.

On Monday the Arts and Crafts Club visited the White Cloud Pottery factory near Newburgh. About 25 students enjoyed the trip. The last meeting of the club for the school year will be held in Miss Esther Hensley's shack on May 26.

Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Vanden Berg, Prof. and Mrs. Benjamin Matteson, Dean Grace MacArthur, Miss Jennie Lee Dunn and Miss Maude Richards were guests of the 12th annual banquet of the Kindergarten Primary Club on Thursday night in the school cafeteria. The dinner was served under the supervision of Miss Peeler. There was entertainment and speeches between the courses. Janet Murphy, committee chairman, sat at the speaker's table with Miss Ruth E. Jones, Miss Ruth Havens, Miss Mary Muffy and Miss Dorothy Giddings. There were about 70 present.

Joe Anderson spent the week-end in New York.

Miss Stella Higgins, Mrs. Ilene Compton and Mrs. Klein of the faculty were dinner guests at the Akonian Sorority house on Wednesday evening.

Thelma Van Anden has returned to school after a long period of illness.

On Tuesday night, May 1, the musical organizations of the Normal School held a supper party and dance in the Normal School gym and cafeteria from 8 to 12 o'clock. During the intermissions the following programs were enjoyed: "In April" and "Without Love," sung by Miss Myrtle Thompson, accompanied by Herbert Adler, the composer and writer of the lyrics. Eleanor Schemerhorn, accompanied by Jack Granitz, sang "The Moonlight Madonna." A representation from the Glee Club sang "April Showers" and "Moonbeams." After the supper there were brief addresses by Lucille Smith and Prof. Howard B. Hoffman, the head of the music department. After the singing of the "Alma Mater," dancing was again enjoyed in the gymnasium.

The main features at the Country Life Club fair Thursday night in the gym were a five and drum corps consisting of 30 pieces by the Rifton schools. There was a baby show which was made up of pictures of members of the faculty taken years ago. A little car race, a balloon race and a jittery dance added to the fun.

Saturday, May 3, the Normal baseball team will play Hartwick College, near Oneonta.

The meet's smoker recently held at the gym, given in honor of the faculty, was voted a great success. Entertainment was furnished by Bob Walker at the piano, Nat Peck at the violin, solo by Pete Joy and Walter Dietz. Prof. A. B. Bennett also took part. There were more than 50 students present and Irving D. Kortright, janitor, was an honored guest. The Messrs. De Cesare, Schmidt, Mrs. Dick Thompson and Coach Loren Campbell did some trapeze stunts.

The Normal baseball team won over Highland High School here on Tuesday afternoon to the score of 6 to 1.

Miss J. Brown of the class of 1932 has announced her engagement to John Tillotson of Leland Stanford University. The wedding will take place June 23.

"All averages were earned last quarter by Enzo Pollit, Herbert Adler and Evelyn Weiner. Mr. Pollit is an all-around student, athlete and artist. Mr. Adler is co-editor of the Normal school paper, and contributed to the success of the recent Alpha Sigma Omicron cabaret show. Evelyn Weiner was successful as practice teacher and has demonstrated her teaching ability at the Normal.

Mr. Cure has already taken possession and is well qualified in dairy farming, having owned and operated three large farms in Ulster county in the past 25 years, one of which was the farm now owned by Willis G. Flasher of Life Sketched in Brief

(By the Associated Press)
It Must Be Love.
St. Paul, Minn.—Said the judge to Mrs. Peter Month, as he sentenced Peter to 30 days in the workhouse for beating her:
"I'll keep him locked up as long as you like, Mrs. Month. Let me know when you think he's had enough."
One hour later Mrs. Month came back.
"Your honor," she said, "May I take him home now, please?"
No Dogcatchers Wanted.
Elizabeth City, N. C.—No one wants to be dogcatcher here. Two former holders of the office declined reappointment with thanks. They said that small boys stoned them, dog owners threatened to beat them up, and that dogs that were impounded were mysteriously released as rapidly as they were nabbed.
The city is considering scrapping the dog ordinance.

Death Throws a Wheel.
Athens, Tenn.—An automobile, rounding a curve, threw a wheel which rolled across the sidewalk, striking five-year-old Cleo Ratton, walking with her mother yesterday. She was killed, the car driver was held.

One Track Thief.
Sunbury, Pa.—There is nothing like a good burglarizing of his filling station to start the day right for Samuel Heasey.
In the eight years he has been in business his place has been looted 53 times. Things have got so now that Heasey doesn't leave things around anymore. The last visit of the burglar netted only six packs of cigarettes.

Starting Young.
Bradenton, Fla.—Mrs. Estell Deal Mercer, 13 years old, and her husband, Charles, 20, are honeymooning. Their marriage licenses were issued on written consent of their parents. County Judge W. H. Tucker said it was the youngest bride to whom a license had been issued during his ten years in office.

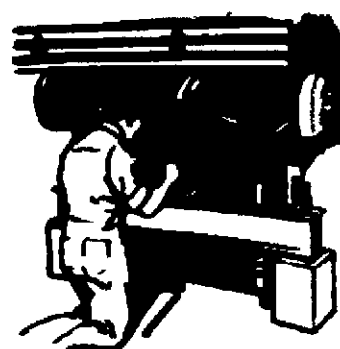

No Referee Needed.
Tacoma, Wash.—How two neighboring families settled amicably a dispute involving the garden of one and the wandering rooster of the other is related by Deputy Assessor W. C. Fowler.

"Your destructive bird got all my nasturtium seed except three or four. You might as well send him over for those," read a note penned by the home gardener to the rooster's owner.

Back came the rooster but his head was cut off. A note expressed hope the potential meal might pay for the destruction.

Back went a note inviting the owner of the bird to Sunday dinner. It was accepted.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—If there is even a gleam of silver on the horizon I am happy.
So said Gloria Swanson not long ago, and the expression epitomizes the philosophy that has carried her through a career more varied and interesting than the average movie star can boast.

Now that separation has come between Gloria and her fourth husband, the handsome young Michael Farmer, the star may need more than one "gleam of silver" to compensate.

Hollywood, however, expects that Gloria, characteristically, will look forward rather than back. She has a reputation for optimism—a quality she has needed abundantly during the latter days of her career.

Prepares For Comeback
The immediate "gleam of silver"
on the Swanson horizon is the prospect of a purposeful return to battle for screen fame. Even while the breach between Gloria and Michael was widening, the star was preparing for a comeback under the conditions she desired.

For more than a year she has been off the screen, although not

Devoted Mother

The indication was ended by an affiliation with Irving G. Thalberg, the young producer whose judgment on pictures is regarded in Hollywood as well nigh infallible. She is confident that with Thalberg as mentor she can regain her place in the cinema sun.

Gloria's three children—Gloria Somborn, Joseph, her adopted son, and Bridget Michael Farmer, the first daughter of her last marriage—constitute other "silver linings" to the cloud of discord in her life.
Gloria Somborn is the daughter of the late Herbert Somborn, restaurantier who died recently. Joseph was adopted in infancy, and given equal status in the Swanson fortunes and affections with Gloria.
Bridget Michael was born in London, within a year after Gloria's marriage to Farmer. The children constitute an abiding interest in the star's life, and she is known as a devoted mother.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "Tarzan and His Mate" Ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls here is a show. The hair raising adventures of Tarzan the Apo-Man come to the screen again after a far too long absence, and although the character of the muscular Tarzan and his adventures are figments of a great imagination, so well done is this truly brilliant talkie that to witness the show is to believe what you see is true. In other words, this adventure picture is superior entertainment to be enjoyed by young and old. It is so good that critics have found nothing but praises for its originality and clever direction.
It is the ultimate in exciting screen melodrama. The plot centers around Jane, the wealthy society girl, who comes to live with Tarzan in his jungle home. They are married and happy until the lust for gold among white men sends the jungle into a state of anarchy. Through it all, Tarzan does the deeds of strength and bravery of which he alone is capable. He fights wild animals, outwits everybody, and sees that justice is done. The show is alive with humor, activity, amazing trick photography and brilliant acting. John Weissmuller heads the cast as Tarzan, and Maureen O'Sullivan, Noel Hamilton, Paul Cavanaugh, Nathan Curry and Forrester Harvey are featured. Cedric Gibbons directed. Don't miss.
Orpheum: "All of Me" and "Police Car 17". Two people in the upper strata of society fall in love but fear the consequences of marriage. From an ex-convict and his trusting sweetheart, these two learn that love is pretty much a matter of give and take. Frederic March, George Raft, Miriam Hopkins and Helen Mack are the mainstays of this picture, the first feature of the fall. It may not sound like it, but the show moves along at bullet-like speed. "Police Car 17". Tim McCoy deserves the great open spaces and his trusty horse long enough to rip off the police thriller for the enjoyment of the masses. This is Mr. McCoy's latest screen endeavor and it is one of his best.

Broadway: "Vaudeville" and "Easy to Love". The Broadway continues its vaudeville policy with four new acts through Friday and Saturday of this week. Although unannounced, the acts on this week's bill promise to be exceptionally good.
"Easy to Love". An amusing and well acted little picture is this story of a philandering husband whose quest for the opposite sex winds him up in the arms of his wife's best friend. So the wife decides to have an affair of her own, and troubles ensue until the daughter comes forth with a reconciliation. Adolphe Menjou, Mary Astor, Genevieve Tobin, Edward Everett Horton and Patricia
Ellis are in the cast.

Kingston: Same.
Orpheum: "Three on a Honeymoon". Matrimony and comedy join forces and become one and the same thing in the feature picture at the Orpheum. Sally Eilers, Zazu Pitts, Henrietta Crossman, Irene Hervey, and Charles Starrett are the performers. This show is filled with clever dialogue and the plot is novel.

Yankees Shut Out Detroit by 3-0, Giants Slip Losing to Pirates 4-3

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

So long as the Yankees have Vernon Gomez, they are in the position of the Cardinals, who have the best pitcher in the American League.

Knocked out in the opening game of the season, the Yankees from Rodeo Field, had three straight victories, allowing the opposition to hit six and three hits and a total of three runs. He hurled the three-hit game yesterday, gaining his first victory since the opening of the season.

The Chicago Cubs finally found a left-hander they could beat and they cut New York's lead in the National League race to a half game as they drove Tom Zachary, Boston veteran, to cover inside of three innings and went on to give the Braves an 8 to 1 facing. Buck Jordan's homer was the only run off Guy Bush, who won his fifth straight triumph.

The St. Louis Cardinals ran up their sixth straight victory, a 3-1 conquest of the Phils, when an error started a two-run rally in the first and Joe Medwick his fifth homer in the fourth. The Dodgers, with Van Mungo on the hill, gave the Cincinnati Reds their sixth consecutive defeat, 6 to 3, with an early assault on Paul Derringer.

Some Snakes Hatch Own Eggs
Not all egg-laying snakes bury their eggs in the sand and let the sun do the hatching. The python is one that takes care of the incubating itself by coiling around the clutch until the young emerge. The pine or bull snake performs in the same manner.

Neusel Gets Split Decision Over Loughran At The Garden

New York, May 5 (AP).—Chalk up one more disputed victory for Walter Neusel and credit it to the young German heavyweight's aggressiveness rather than to his skill or punching power.

A crowd of 10,000 split almost evenly in their opinion as to the merits of the verdict when Neusel was awarded a split decision over Tommy Loughran after their ten-round bout in Madison Square Garden last night.

Lost by Knocking.
But if the Philadelphia really lost the fight as referee Arthur Donovan decided after the judges disagreed, Tommy had only himself to blame. Where he would have landed any rushing youngster dizzy with an educated left hand a few years ago, Loughran was content to

Cub Fans and Players Get An Idol

There's one reason Cub fans are flocking to Wrigley field these days. It's Chuck Klein, Cub batter, who is the idol of his own team because he has induced a winning spirit into the team. Aside from that, he's pretty good (pretty good?) at the bat, too.

Boos for Baer

Maxie Baer, contender for Primo Carnera's heavyweight title, was the recipient of a sack of boos last night when he climbed into the ring at Madison Square Garden to be introduced.

That's the report Doc Studer brought back from the Garden where he attended the Loughran-Neusel fight which he thought the German should not have won. Doc called the thing a draw.

"I was surprised at Loughran," said Doc. "He did a lot of clinching, instead of using that left jab. A few years back he would have cut Neusel to ribbons."

Well, that's the way with Father Time. He's always the winner in the end as far as athletics go.

Getting back to Baer, the movie star cannot be as popular as he thinks himself. Boos in a prize-fight gathering generally determine how well a scrapper sets with his public. And then, too, Primo out-ranked Maxie in a recent vote taken among actors at Hollywood.

Watch 'em Close

Kingston's two prominent horsemen, Kenneth Archer and Sergeant John F. Roosa, of the 156th Field Artillery, will have to keep their eyes peeled Monday when they do the officiating at the show of the New Palitz Riding and Driving Club in New Palitz. Ken and John have been selected as judges for the event. They know their horses and exhibitors should feel proud to have their animals come under their judgment.

Sergeant Roosa is the one who trained Cody, the 156th Field Artillery Horse that won the world's championship as a walker several years ago at Madison Square Garden.

Starting time of the New Palitz show is 4:30 p. m.

Penner Not Alone

Joe Penner, the radio comedian and vaudeville star, is not the only one getting along with his ducks. Homer Emerick's is too.

The prop of the bowling alleys on Albany avenue extension saw a successful meeting of the Duckpin League last night when seven teams had spokesmen present to say they would contest in the loop, and elect Harry Styles president of the league.

However, although both Penner and Emerick count on ducks in their business line, there's some difference as Homer would agree. Penner's "wanna buy a duck" brings him in a neat $10,000 a week. Homer's won't do quite that well.

Baseball fans of Kingston and vicinity have lots of places to go Sunday. There's a game scheduled for nearly every park hereabouts the chief attraction being at the Fair Grounds, uptown, where the Schryver All Stars will clash with the Mt. Vernon A. C. Although this semi-pro match holds the spotlight, the other games promise a lot too.

SCHWEK & KELLY COMBINE LOOKS GOOD IN ACTION

The Schwek & Kelly team, which opens the Downtown Twilight Baseball League, at Hasbrouck Park, Tuesday evening, with Jack Clair's Mayflowers, looked good in practice Friday, performing in a manner which prompted several onlookers to pick the Chocolateaters, as the nine is known, to put it over the Mayflowers. That, however, remains to be seen.

Old Glamour Survives

Up to that final match, critics had rated Mrs. Moody in close to her best form and again unbeatable, only to indulge in "second guessing" afterward to such an extent that the victory must have turned a trifle sour for Miss Jacobs.

Now Miss Jacobs has been honored with the captaincy of this year's American Wightman Cup team but again it is done with something of an air of apology for the absence of Mrs. Moody, who decided she wasn't in condition to play and was left out of the lineup with regret.

No doubt the fairest of intentions exists, but somehow it's as much as though officials said: "We're very sorry about not having Mrs. Moody on the team. The best we can do is to make Miss Jacobs the No. 1 player and captain."

It would be more sporting to say: "As our No. 1 woman player and national champion, Helen Jacobs will lead the Wightman Cup team's invasion of England this year, an honor to which she is doubly entitled because of her ranking position and her heroic play in defense of the trophy last year."

Seven teams had representatives at the organization meeting of the Duckpin League at Homer Emerick's Friday night when officers were elected and tentative plans made for starting Thursday, May 10.

The teams represented and those who spoke for them were as follows: Suburban No. 1 and No. 2, William H. Hottel.

Doc Studer, who like all match-makers leads a life of one headache after another, needed a case of aspirin tablets yesterday after he opened a telegram from the New York State Boxing Commission. The contents read to the effect: that Jay Macadon of Newark would not be eligible to box Tony Rock of Scranton, Pa., Tuesday night, May 8, at the Municipal Auditorium. The reason for Doc's headache for the American Legion welfare fund was off and definitely on, for the word of the commission is final.

The reason for disqualifying Macadon was given as poor physical condition. How the body of a boxer came to know about Jay's not being in the best of health, Studer did not say.

Such news with the fight only three days off sent Doc scurrying to New York in search of a 150-pounder to mix it with Tony Rock. He had dreams of a hard time digging up an opponent all the way to the big city, but on arriving met up with Lady Luck, who treated him kindly.

Dropping into the office at Madison Square Garden where all the professors of pugna congregate, he ran across the manager of Tommy Romano, the Albany terror, who queried about Doc's worry.

"Why shouldn't I look down-hearted," said Studer, "when I get a telegram from the boxing bosses that Jay Macadon is not in shape to fight Tony Rock. And the thing was my main event too. And for next Tuesday, no less."

Instead of crying on Doc's shoulder, the Albany expert of statistics broke out in a big old laugh. "You're just the guy I'm looking for. I have a boy who can cut the close of the man Rock. He'll have him down to gravel in five rounds. Doc, and he isn't busy Tuesday. We'll take that shot."

Then Studer inquired about Romano's qualifications. He learned from Tommy's boss that the Terror fought Rock in Schenectady last winter and was the only one to give him any kind of stiff opposition in the five straight scraps the Scranton boy had at Odd Fellows Hall.

Doc did three skips and a jump, hugged Romano's manager and asked him to attend the Loughran-Neusel fight as his guest.

Knowing he had nothing further to worry about, Studer settled down in the Garden last night and kept close tabs on the big scrap. He thought the decision should have been a draw.

Aside from the change in the main bout for Tuesday, the rest of the American Legion show remains as scheduled originally, the card being as follows:

Semi-Final

Joe Everone, Scranton, Pa., vs. Larry Esposito, Brooklyn, 135 pounds.

Preliminaries

Al Gillette, New Bedford, Mass., vs. Freddie Raymond, New York, 125 pounds.

Ed Cleary, New York, vs. George Chipp, Brooklyn, 175 pounds.

Tickets for the bouts are on sale at the Legion Memorial Building, West O'Reilly street. They may be reserved by phoning 1914.
